

Reflecting on my time at Krueger

Krueger Middle School is much more than just a middle school. Our school consists of the traditional classroom materials like books, computers and desks, but it also contains fun-filled activities and free-spirited teachers.

We welcome students to an environment that motivates them physically, mentally and emotionally to strive toward excellence. Krueger is much more than just a school. Krueger is home.

Not only is Krueger full of academic opportunities, but it is home to some of the best environmental activities in Indiana. Taking care of the environment is a must, and Krueger students strive to make sure this happens. Not to worry, it isn't as boring as it sounds. In the process of teaching students about the environment, we participate in activities such as taking field trips to the Dunes National Lakeshore Park, the beach, Friendship Gardens and canoeing on Trail Creek.

Students also become the teachers when they go outdoors to educate their younger peers about Indiana's environment in events such as Bringing History to Life and the Environmental Field Days.

During living history, students get a chance to "go back in time" by dressing up as pioneers and Native Americans, portraying lifestyles from the past and then comparing it to modern times. This encourages students to interact with the environment while learning about the history of Indiana.

Also, Krueger Middle School students are allowed to express their inner talents by providing classes such as chorus, band and gifted and talented language arts along with many other honors classes. These classes encourage students to work hard at achieving what they're best at doing, because any student, no matter who they are, can and will be successful at Krueger.

I was lucky enough to attend Krueger for three years, participating in spelling bees, talent shows, field trips, extracurricular activities and, most importantly, achieving success. My advice to any incoming students would be to come here with a mindset of determination and perseverance, because all you need to succeed is to keep moving forward on the path of success.

Never give up. At Krueger Middle School, the sky is never the limit.
